The Fund applies life cycle investing strategy where members are allocated to different investment packages based on their age. Clearly, investment needs and appetite towards risks tend to differ with age. The scheme has therefore been designed to place younger members in more aggressive portfolios with automatic shift to conservative portfolios as they approach retirement. This is best practice globally for Defined Contribution investing and we at Axis are proud to lead the industry in the application of this strategy since inception in 2012. The NPRA has adopted this practice for industry-wide implementation by all pension schemes in the new guidelines for investments.

ECONOMIC UPDATE

The balance of risk to the Ghanaian economy continues to be tilted towards higher inflation and lower economic growth on account of incessant depreciation of the local currency, volatility in commodity prices, rising debt levels, tightening of financing (both local and external) conditions, fiscal vulnerabilities and deterioration in global growth and geopolitics. Surprisingly, domestic economic growth appeared relatively strong in Q2 2022. Data released by the Ghana Statistical Service estimated real GDP growth for the second quarter of 2022 at 4.8%, compared with 4.2% recorded in the second quarter of 2021. Despite the strong showing in economic growth, International Ratings Agencies – Fitch and Moody's – downgraded Ghana's credit further into junk territory at CC and Caa2 respectively.

Broad-based increases in prices of goods and services continue to exert upward pressure on the consumer price index. The latest reading indicated that headline inflation accelerated to 40.4% in October 2022, from 37.2% in September. With inflation remaining elevated and the balance of risk on the upside due to the pass-through effects of currency depreciation; the recent upward adjustment in utility tariffs; and rising inflation expectation, the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) increased the key policy rate by 250 basis points to 24.5%. Treasury securities across the entire spectrum of the yield curve continue to reflect recent economic developments. Since the beginning of the year, rates on the shorter, medium and longer end of the curve have increased by an average of 1,641, 1,893 and 1,887 basis points respectively.

On the capital market front, the stock market closed the quarter down (10.05%) in Q3 2022 compared to a 47.06% appreciation the prior year. The stock market capitalization ended the quarter down 1% or GHS510 million from the beginning of the year.

Looking into the final quarter of 2022, our base case scenario is that rising prices will continue to pose a threat to domestic economic growth and social stability. In addition, rising public debt and deeper fiscal deficits exposes the economy to external shocks which particularly will be felt in the foreign exchange market. On balance of these risks, we will endeavor to build a multi-asset portfolio to mitigate the threat of rising inflation whilst enhancing the portfolios resiliency to domestic shocks.
